SAN IGNACIO TOWN, Cayo, Wednesday, November 4, 2009:

Recent direct hits in San Ignacio Police’s anti-illegal arms and ammunition operations tends to indicate a dramatic improvement in the police’s information gathering and intelligence processing capability. This improvement stands out given that recent successes are targeted maneuvers and not resulting from dragnet operations.

On Tuesday, November 3, a team of policemen from the San Ignacio Detachment, visited two specific locations within a half mile of each other on the Mountain Pine Ridge Road and they emerged with 2 illegal pistols and 39 rounds of live ammunition.

In the first instance, it was shortly after 5 o’clock on the morning of Tuesday, November 3, when a team of three policemen arrived at the Maya Ranch farmhouse located about 4 1/2 miles on the Mountain Pine Ridge Road from its junction with the Western Highway in Georgeville. The house was occupied by a male and female Belizean couple. A search of the house led to the discovery, inside the bedroom, under the bed, of a Jericho brand, 941SF model, 9 mm pistol bearing serial number 33307818 with an inserted Steven Edward Stults, 46, the .45 Colt Pistol and the 6 bullets.

Isaquias Mai, 26, the 9mm Jericho Pistol and all 33 bullets.

There Are Many Positive And Innovative Things Happening At St. Ignatius High School

Out of respect for readers of the STAR Newspaper, as a rule of thumb, when three or more persons visit us to express concern on a singular topic, as insignificant as it may seem to others, we take heed. This is one of those instances.

Over the past two weeks, we have received several expressions of concern about restrictions being imposed by the management of Santa Elena’s St. Ignatius High School as it relates to food for students attending that school.

The general feeling on the part of those expressing concern is that, in an apparent effort to boost business for the contracted privately operated cafeteria on the school compound, the school’s management is imposing, what they consider to be, unreasonable restrictions for the introduction into the compound of alternative food to students.

Some teachers and parents are of the opinion that, apart from being unfair, these restrictions border on violating their fundamental right to freedom of choice. They further contend that fostering a monopoly on food supply for the cafeteria, reduces the spirit of competition with the potential accompanying risk of increasing the cost of food and lowering the quality and nutritional value of the food which is important for students’ health and, by extension, for the enhancement of their academic performance.

One parent contends that not even in a prison environment, where the fundamental rights of prisoners are severely curtailed, is food restrictions imposed upon inmates. Depending on their outside support base, food from relatives is accepted, an inmate can purchase food from the prison store and there are those who are even allowed to cook their own food inside the confines of the prison.

While there is hardly any doubt that St. Ignatius High School is providing an excellent alternative opportunity for otherwise underprivileged students to obtain a secondary school education, no effort should be spared at fostering the spirit of harmony between management, teachers, parents and students.

As a point of departure, the management might probably want to consider drawing from the positive experiences of any other similar secondary education institutions operating cafeteria services in the district or, in a wider sense, countrywide.

The board of director, management and staff, parents and students should, with a sense of urgency, put aside all personal considerations on this matter and come together as one to nip this riff in the bud thereby calming the waters so that they can all get on with the more important task of providing a solid educational foundation for the future leaders and productive citizens of the nation.

It would be remiss of us not to mention that, apart from this hiccup, there are many positive and innovative things happening at St. Ignatius High School. One of the most recent such developments is the opening, just last Thursday, of a students’ resource center.

Pepso Laid To Rest

SAN IGNACIO TOWN, Cayo District, Wednesday, November 4, 2009:

Funeral service was held today at St. Andrew’s Anglican Church in San Ignacio Town for Solomon Phillip “Pepso” Gordon Jr., who passed away quietly on Friday, October 30 at the Western Regional Hospital in Belmopan. He was hospitalized for several days from the effects of a stroke.

Pepso was born and grew up in the Red Creek Community on the outskirts of Santa Elena Town.

Pepso attended St. Andrew’s Anglican Primary School, and from those early days his talent as a goalkeeper was obvious.

A relative who attended school with him recalled towards the end of the 1960’s, with Pepso in the web, St. Andrew’s hardly ever lost a primary school football game.

In the prime of his life Pepso was the STAR goalkeeper for the unstoppable Santa Elena Steel Football team playing alongside talented teammates like Rowland Jex in the striker position, George Andrews, brothers, Weedy and Lorenzo “Junior” Gonzalez and the powerhouse defense, Willie “King Black” Wiltshire.

In his senior years Pepso moved up to San Ignacio Town and became like a fixture in the center of town in the area of Burns Avenue and Hudson Street.

A longtime friend, Maestro Herman Ochaeta Sr., who operates Hangout El Che variety store near the Coronation Park in San Ignacio, remembers him as an honest and faithful handy person who was always on hand to assist with whatever chores and errands there was to do.

Solomon Phillip Gordon Jr. was laid to rest inside the Santa Rita Cemetery in San Ignacio Town.

He is survived by sisters: Eleanor, Joyce, Janet and Geraldine Gordon; one brother, Jeffery Gordon and a host of uncles, aunts, nieces, nephews, cousins and many friends. May his soul rest in eternal peace.

A faithful church going man, who had reached the age of 105, suddenly stopped going to church.

Alarmed by the old fellow’s absence after so many years of faithful attendance, the Pastor went to see him and found him in excellent health, so the Pastor asked, “How come after all these years we don’t see you at services anymore?”

The old man lowered his voice. “I’ll tell you, Pastor” he whispered. “When I got to be 90, I expected God to take me any day. But then I got to be 95, then 100, then 105. So, I figured that God is very busy and must’ve forgotten about me, and I don’t want to remind Him!”

Uganda School Exam Births Shock

Two schoolgirls have gone into labour during exams, given birth and then continued to sit their tests in the afternoon, shocking many in Uganda.

The BBC’s Joshua Mmalu in Uganda says some have been impressed by the determination of the teenage girls.

The first case happened in the rural area of Masindi on Monday and Ugandan papers say the baby girl was named Nambuuso, meaning “born during exams”.

A boy was born in Kibaale the next day between the maths and science exams.

Both the young mothers were taking their national primary school leaving exams. Our correspondent says in principle the government does not condone pregnancies in school.

In rural areas, girls as old as 18 go to junior school, he says.

Walking On Frozen Water

A Canadian boy named Lar had heard stories of an amazing family tradition. It seemed that his father, grandfather and great-grandfather had all been able to walk on water on their 21st birthdays, to the boat club across the lake for their first legal drink.

So when Lar’s 21st came around, he and his pal Steven took a boat out to the middle of the lake.

Lar stepped out of the boat and nearly drowned. Steven managed to pull him to safety. Furious and confused, Lar went to see his grandmother.

“Grandma,” he asked. “It’s my 21st birthday, so why can’t I walk across the lake like my father, his father, and his father before him?”

Granny looked into Lar’s eyes and said, “Because son, your father, grandfather and great-grandfather were born in December. You were born in July.

SAN IGNACIO TOWN, Wednesday, November 4, 2009:

The internationally renowned Eva’s Restaurant is now under new management. Chef Adam Thompson and his wife Karen are now at the helm of the oldest restaurant in town located on Burns Avenue in the center of San Ignacio, Cayo.

With “John” behind the bar, we stopped by this past Wednesday evening for a brief chat with Adam to find out what his plans are for Eva’s Restaurant.

Adam said that he will undertake major design improvements to the interior of the restaurant in order to make it more pleasing and comfortable for customers. Some of these changes were notably visible as we entered the restaurant.

With his intensive training in food and beverage management, Adam said that he is converting the restaurant into what he calls a Gastro Pub focusing mainly on food and food quality. He said that he will also be improving on the quality of service for which Eva’s is internationally known and featured in several international magazines. As evidence of this endeavor, he has already come up with a new and affordable food and beverage menu. “While Eva’s of the past has relied mainly on tourist customers, we are moving more towards tapping into the local market,” said Adam. “Our operation is based on volume and so we are providing $5 breakfast and entree/lunch/dinner for only $7. Except for fry jack and fries, all our foods are grilled as we focus on removing fat from the fresh and healthy food we serve our customers. We are also moving towards using 100% local products and organically grown fruits and vegetables. About 80% of the food on our menu is vegetarian optional. We also provide very affordable prices for families and large groups,” said Adam.

In its endeavor to increase volume, the new management of Eva’s Restaurant is linking up with smaller hotels whereby these hotels provide the bed and Eva’s provide the breakfast. Adam said that this new undertaking is catching on rather quickly. Like a few other restaurants in town, Eva’s also provides FREE internet and Wi Fi service to customers.

“Other plans in the making include Thai Food Nights; Fine Dinning Nights and Seafood Nights. We will also be opening our own in-house bakery to make our own breads and desserts,” concluded Adam.

Aperusal of the writings in the Amandala appears in many instances, to address current sentiments about the state of affairs in Belize with a view towards ameliorating or, at least, exposing any adverse conditions that might exist.

One such view implicitly holds that white supremacists could be causing a downward spiral of the country because of their actions and/or inactions. Without knowing all the facts in Belize, I will venture to address this topic, but mainly in a broader global perspective as it relates to class, race, racism, and favoritism.

Firstly, some working definitions must be in order. By class, I refer to the capitalist’s categories, (not proletariat and bourgeoisie) as in upper, middle, and lower classes, which are often defined in terms of quantitative income or wealth. By race, I am referring mainly to the three broad categories encompassing primarily the European, the Africans and the Asians.

By racism, I am referring to a situation where someone or even a group of people are treated better than others for reasons other than merit or superior work performance. I will begin with class and race.

The issue of class and race was intimately intertwined historically, but is in general, slowly unraveling in modern times. A consensus exists that the biggest inequity in the world today is among classes, not races. As education and opportunities increase among minorities, the data show that the income gap has been just as wide among rich and poor blacks as among rich and poor whites. An increasing number of upwardly mobile middle class blacks now live in the suburbs of many major cities. No less than Professor Henry Louis Gates (yes, Professor Gates of the beer summit) and Professor Orlando Paterson (Jamaican Sociologist also of Harvard) have shown class to be a far more significant factor in human underdevelopment.

According to Paterson in a newspaper report, a survey found that a majority of black men attributed their plight to their own individual failures and attitudes rather than racism. They do not underplay the persistence of racism in the US, but they refuse to explain away their troubles by blaming the system. Many academians, therefore, see the race struggle as less important since racism, hopefully, will slowly improve as people become better educated and more open minded. The main struggle then, is that of class since the laborer of all races faces the same problems and injustices.

Now a discussion on favoritism. What is referred to as racism or supremacy (white or otherwise) is first and foremost, in the majority of instances, favoritism, which exists in all races.

With respect to favoritism, plain and simple, this behavior is based on the inner circle concept of closeness: family (nepotism) at the center, close friends and compadres, then same tribes (bro, homeboy, root Belizeans, paisanos), acquaintances, and lastly, strangers and different tribes and races at the outer circle. Invariably, then, when one is refused a position, it may be not because he is disliked or hated, or consciously considered inferior, but primarily because someone else is liked more. The concept of likes liking likes (except maybe for Sampson and Delilah, Romeo and Juliet) is as old as prehistory. Its fairness is another matter, which is sometimes taken up legally by the State, but can still become a serious impediment where one race or culture is dominant (Apartheid in the extreme).

Does racism exist? Yes, it does, but it exists today much less than in the past.

Institutional racisms like European, the Africans and the Hispanics still are not well represented in the work force, and in the higher echelons of corporate America. They constitute a significant percentage of the incarcerated. But this situation did not occur because of a willful desire to restrain and to hold back as the British did in India and Africa, the Iberians in Latin America, and the French in parts of North Africa.

Our progress in the US is manifested by the fact that a majority of white folks voted for President Barack Obama (my daughter even campaigned for him, and went to the Convention). A black man is the governor of Massachusetts, an East Indian of Louisiana, and numerous Black and Hispanic mayors exist across the country. Progress is sometimes slow, and we grow weary, but a country cannot legislate morality, ethics, and goodwill. It has to come from within!

It has also been shown historically, that even people that are alike and are not white can show tremendous dislike and peril towards one another. One needs only to think of Rwanda (the Tutsis and the Hutus) Darfur, the forced exodus of 80,000 Hindus in 1972 from Uganda, the Indians and Pakistanis, the Sri Lankans (same people different religion), the Kurds and the Turks, the Kurds and the Iraqis, the Balkans, civil unrest in the Ivory Coast, Kenya, etc. Tribal differences many times trump so-called racial sameness. We like our own kind, and we protect them!

Finally, back to Belize, who are the white supremacists? Is there a dominant white population with a hidden agenda? Is it the Jesuits? On balance, have they caused more harm than good? Is it their fault that the British (Cambridge exam) forced us to take one year of Tudor history back in my times? I’m sure the Jesuits would have preferred for us to study Jeffersonian Democracy. Is white supremacy just symbolism for past and present American and European hegemony and dominance? Will we forever blame others if we do not progress? Can we move on in spite of these difficulties?

Let’s be mindful of the past, but let’s look forward to the boundless challenges and opportunities that lie ahead to make Belize great. Let’s think, without prejudice, but fully informed, as one united, albeit richly diverse, nation.

I hope my thoughts on the topic should not be taken as an affront to views expressed in the Amandala on white supremacy, but merely as another view, or opinion, that, I think, deserves exposure.

Bateman Jr. Sentenced To 4 Years Imprisonment Common-Law-Wife And Father Relieved of Charges

SAN IGNACIO TOWN, Cayo District, Friday, October 30, 2009:

Last week we reported the arrest of Simon Bateman Sr., 50, his son, Simon Bateman Jr., 22 and the son’s 19 year old common law wife, Christine Dawson, on prohibited firearm and unlicensed ammunition charges. At the time when the article was published they were not yet brought before the court. However, around midmorning that same Friday they appeared before Magistrate Anna Rachel Montejo where Bateman Jr. pleaded guilty to both charges.

After confirming Bateman’s agreement with the facts as presented by the prosecution, Magistrate Montejo proceeded to sentence him to two years imprisonment on both charges. The magistrate further ordered that the sentences to run consecutively commencing October 29, 2009. Simon Bateman Sr., was therefore sentenced to 4 years imprisonment.

The charges against Christine Dawson were withdrawn by the prosecution. In seeking similar consideration, the father informed the court that he is currently residing in Hopkins Village, Stann Creek District and that at the time of the incident, he was merely visiting his son. He said “I was just visiting my son when he got me into this mess. I am a law abiding citizen. I work as a security consultant. I would never get involved in these kinds of things,” said Bateman Sr.

A few minutes later, the search party arrive at a house locate about 4 miles on the Mountain Pine Ridge Road from its junction with the Western Highway in Georgeville.

Inside the house at the time was a lone Caucasian male person. A search of the house led to the discovery, inside the bathroom of the elevated structure, of a black leather holster and when opened, a gun was found inside. The gun was removed from the holster and was found to be a Colt Brand, Government Model, point 45 caliber, pistol, bearing serial number 29768870, with five live rounds of ammunition of the same caliber. The prohibited firearm and unlicensed ammunition were reportedly found under some male clothes inside the house.

All three occupants of the residence, present at the time of the discovery, were detained and transported to the San Ignacio Police Station where they were formally arrested and jointly charged for the crimes of possessing a prohibited firearm and possession of ammunition without a gun license.

When measured from the tip of the sawed off barrel to the end of the butt, the altered Harrington & Richardson 16 gauge shotgun, with serial number AY 407998, measured a mere 20 inches. A shotgun of this brand and caliber is factory produced at 48 ½ inches. With a difference of 28 ½ inches, this particular shotgun was therefore reduced to less than half its actual length thereby converting it into a prohibited firearm under the laws of Belize.

The incident occurred at around 7 o’clock on the morning of Thursday, October 29, when a police team comprising elements from the Belmopan based Anti-Drugs Unit along with officers from the San Ignacio detachment, conducted a search at a house located about half a mile down the road.

The accused, Simón Bateman Jr., 22 and Steven Stults, 46, US national. He told the police that he is a retired US army soldier.

All three persons were transported to the San Ignacio Town police station where the first set of accused, Isaquias Mai and the female companion were formally arrested and charged for: 1) Keeping unlicensed Firearm and 2) Keeping unlicensed ammunition - (6 rounds of point 45 ammunition).

They appeared before San Ignacio’s magistrate, Anna Rachel Montejo on Wednesday, November 4, where Isaquias Mai pled guilty to both charges and was sentenced to 2 consecutive for each offence, in effect he will serve 2 years in jail. Charges against the female companion were consequently withdrawn by the prosecutions.

For his part, Steven Edward Stults pleaded not guilty to both charges and was remanded to the central prison in Hattieville and ordered to return to court on Tuesday, December 15, 2009.
